Outstanding Alum Chosen

Elizabeth Jozwiak

Named the UW-Waukesha's Outstanding Alum for 2006, Elizabeth Jozwiak graduated from Waukesha North High School and started her college studies at the campus in 1983. She will be an honored guest September 15 at the Sweet Rewards reception for scholarship winners and donors.

Each year, the Friends & Alumni of UWW, Inc., presents the award to an alumna/us with at least ten years distance from the campus and outstanding accomplishments.

Although she entered college as an "undecided" major, Jozwiak, now an assistant professor of history at UW-Rock County, found her calling during her first two years at Waukesha. "I could explore different classes," she cites as one reason to come to UW-Waukesha. "The professors are good, and I would be able to transfer." She also appreciated being able to save money on tuition as well as living expenses, since she stayed at home. Besides, her sister, Anne, had come to the local campus before her, and her father, Bob, worked at it. Later, her sister, Kathleen, would also attend.

Despite believing that a degree in history had limited marketability, she gave into her attraction. "I took every class I could with Dr. [Gordon]

Goodrum. He confirmed my love of history and added to it," she said. "He became a real academic mentor to me." Dr. [Hung mao] Tien, who taught political science, also fueled her interest in his academic field, and that meshed well with her history studies, she said.

While at UW-Waukesha, she worked in the library, something she calls "a good experience," and even tried her hand at the student newspaper, which she doesn't believe would have been possible at a larger campus.

After two years, she moved on. "I was totally prepared. The professors at UW-Waukesha were excellent, really cared about student learning. There was no transition academically," she says, when she transferred to UW-Milwaukee, where she completed her bachelor's degree in history and political science in 1987.

Still, this was just a start. She went on to earn a master's degree at UW-Madison in 1989 and then began teaching for Marian College. Later, she enrolled in a Ph.D. program in history at UW-Madison and finished in 1997 with specialties in the U.S. progressive era, labor history, and socialism.

In 1998, she accepted a teaching position at UW-Rock County. She has enjoyed the experience of starting with challenging academics but in a smaller environment and advises students entering today, "If you choose the UW Colleges, you can't go wrong," and adds, "They have great professors." After all, now she's one of them.

The 40th anniversary of the founding of the campus is upon us. As we come up to this event, it's appropriate to stop and reflect on the achievements of the past and to ponder the shape of things to come.

In the last 40 years, tens of thousands of students have moved successfully through the campus. That's tens of thousands of people whose lives have been changed for the better, tens of thousands of men and women who have gone on to contribute to Wisconsin in important ways—raising their families, doing their jobs, helping to build their communities. UW-Waukesha has been the best place for students to start—not just by helping students prepare for a life of work, but helping prepare them for the work of their lives.

In the next year we plan to celebrate this accomplishment with a series of events to mark and remember the passage of years and the great work that has been done on the campus. We'll keep you informed as we finalize the calendar for these events as they draw nearer.

But things are also changing at UW-Waukesha. The county and the region that we serve has changed, and the campus must change to meet evolving challenges. At this point, the future of the campus holds many possibilities. We may add more degree-completion and graduate programs, importing them from other schools; we may become part of UW-Milwaukee; we may even become a stand-alone comprehensive four-year school on the model of UW-Green Bay and UW-Eau Claire. You can find detailed updates on the progress of this discussion on our Web site:

waukesha.uwc.edu/about/index.html.

Whatever we become, however, we pledge to seek to continue our mission of access to excellence, providing the gateway to the UW system for students from all backgrounds and circumstances. The faculty, staff, and administration of UW-Waukesha believe in this mission. We believe in the importance of the work we do. We believe in the significance of the many lives we've helped to change. We believe in the Wisconsin Idea, that the borders of the University should be the borders of the state. As a campus, we continue to value the core ideals of a liberal arts education: mutual respect, tolerance, principled inquiry, and a love of the life of the mind. We hope to continue to live by these ideals for the next 40 years.

The Friends & Alumni Foundation and UW-Waukesha to host "A Festival of Trees"

November 18–19, 2006
UW-Waukesha Commons

This weekend event will kick-off Saturday evening with a Friends & Alumni Foundation Benefit. Dozens of fully-decorated holiday trees and wreaths will be on display and auctioned off to benefit the students and programs of UW-Waukesha.

A reunion of The Madrigal Singers, performances by UW-Waukesha musicians, food and cocktails are sure to put you in the holiday spirit.

Following the downtown Waukesha Christmas Parade on Sunday, the community is invited to come and enjoy the decorated trees and wreaths, a holiday market, special holiday performances and much more on the UW-Waukesha campus.

If you would like to help with this wonderful event, donate a decorated tree or wreath or receive further information about The 2006 Festival of Trees, please contact Foundation Director Katie Miller at (262)446-3328 or Katie.miller@uwc.edu.
